

Get The Right Start!

If you've been thinking about getting into the residential air duct cleaning business, Safety King can help you. We have developed a focused training program for start-up operations that can mean a smooth and profitable beginning for your new business.

Our approach is this: our supervisors train you and your field personnel (and/or your office staff) as we carry out actual projects together. In other words, this training is not at all theoretical. You and your people learn by actually doing (under our careful supervision) the various technical and administrative tasks involved in completing real duct cleaning jobs for real Safety King customers. We do supplement these hands-on experiences with some periods of classroom-style instruction, but that instruction only has real meaning in the context of the real-world training you get in this program.

We are capable of putting you a significant distance into the learning curve involved in this business. Our experience-intensive approach can help you acquire information and skills that could literally take years to develop on your own. You will be able, after the Safety King training, to do the kind of work that builds a solid reputation rather than making the normal mistakes usually associated with a new venture.

Learn from the best! Safety King is the oldest and largest air duct cleaning firm in Michigan, dispatching a fleet of twenty completely equipped state-of-the-art Power Vacuum Trucks. We are the ideal company to provide this training because we are, and have been since 1969, air duct cleaning specialists. We have never sold furnace repair, equipment, or filters. We have always concentrated on just one thing: delivering the finest air duct cleaning available on the market, at a fair price. In addition, we pioneered the exclusive use of the 1-800-AIRDUCT phone number in our local market, and we can arrange for you to have sole rights to the same toll-free number in the area code or codes in your market.

The nerve center of our company is located in the office wing of our new 15,000 sq. ft. garage facility. It is a fully computerized and networked office environment equipped with the latest technology for use by our sales and administrative personnel.

If you'd like to speak personally with some of the many satisfied graduates of our training program, let us know. We will provide you with the needed contact information.

With Safety King training, you get the right start RIGHT NOW.